

Namibia Water Corporation Ltd

The Namibia Water Corporation Ltd (NamWater) is a state-owned enterprise responsible for supplying bulk water services across Namibia to industries, municipalities, and rural communities. Established on December 1997, it operates under the auspices of the Ministry of Agriculture, Water, and Land Reform, with the Namibian Government as its sole shareholder.

Strategy

NamWater's mission is to provide quality water and related services to all stakeholders in Namibia, emphasizing environmental awareness, the scarcity of water resources, and the nation's dependency on water. Its vision of "Water For All, Forever" reflects a commitment to sustainable water provision for every Namibian, now and in the future.

Products and Services

NamWater's services are organized across five regional Business Units: North-West, North-East, Central, Coastal, and South. These units ensure the decentralized delivery of NamWater's services, which include hydrological services to manage and assess water resources and water quality services. The NamWater Laboratory in Windhoek is equipped with the latest technology and expert personnel to provide water quality analysis upon request, covering a range of water types including drinking water, industrial water, borehole water, and wastewater, among others.

Opportunities

- Opportunities to develop and expand water infrastructure to meet growing demand in urban and rural areas.
- With Namibia's long coastline, there's potential for increased investment in desalination plants to bolster water supply.

Challenges

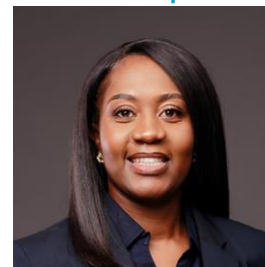

- Water scarcity, due to prolonged drought periods and decreasing dam water levels, is a concern.
- Maintaining and upgrading aging water infrastructure to ensure efficient water delivery and minimize losses.
